CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Special services were also held at Howard Congregational Church last Sunday, Rev. G. L. Imes, the new pastor, who comes to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. James Bond, preaching his initial sermon.
He made a good impression upon his audience, taking for the theme of his discourse, "Love," and regarding it as one of the most potent factors in the life and happiness of man, a great world problem, solved only by the life and works of Christ, as manifested in his work for man while on earth. His text was, "A New Commandment I give unto you that ye love one another as I have loved you." He stated that many people desired various things for their personal and selfish satisfaction in life, some the pleasures of the senses, some fame, wealth and glory, others power, but at the end each must lay these down, and the soul would find itself naked and gaunt in its miserable poverty.
In the course of his remarks he said:

"In these days of economic development, fraught with strife, rivalry and competition, we are perfectly familiar with the situations in which those manifestations which we commonly recognize as the activities of love, but the by-products, as it were, of the whole system, designed themselves to further selfish ends. In the struggle for place, power and preferment, little time is given to think how another fares, unless it be to watch that he win not in the race.
Not so is love, but with mind, heart, strength, every energy is bent in the complete denial of self, to the end that the lives touched in daily contact may each one be enlarged, strengthened and purified. Love is unchangeable, it is eternal; it is undivided.
To take one's all and in act of lifelong devotion, pour it out in the service of kindred passing souls; to consciously choose the highest, noblest ends of existence, and with all one's capacities, energies and being, strive for the realization, not in intangible ideals, but as identified with striving, yearning, living flesh and blood—this is love. As we go about our work, as we intend the helping of men's lives by our words and deeds, Jesus saith unto us, 'This is my commandment, that you love one another even as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends.' Exchange"

REV. J. L. HARDING IMPROVING.
A letter dated October 29, from Denver, Col., written to Mr. H. A. Boyd assistant secretary of the National Baptist Publishing Board, from Rev.
J. L. Harding, a member of the Publishing Board, who is in Denver for his health, states that he is improving rapidly, and that he already feels greatly the benefit of his sojourn in the West. He desires to be remembered to all inquiring friends and especially solicits their prayers. He did not know at the time of writing when he would return to the Volunteer State.
